

About Manipur

Manipur, known by various names- Jewel of India, The land of gems, Switzerland of India, A little paradise on earth, A flower on lofty heights etc, nestling deep within a lush green corner of North East India is wondrously beautiful and mesmerizing state of India- a gateway of India to the South East Asia. Manipur lying between Latitude 23°50' and 25°30' North and Longitude 93°10' and 94°30' East, having an area of 22,327 sq. km., inhabited by colourful communities of different cultures with different folklore, myths and legends but living in complete harmony for centuries, populated by 23,88,634 persons (census 2001), is famous for its enchanting scenic beauty of the nature, favourable and pleasant climate which makes Manipur- a nature lover's delight. Its unique and rich charismatic art, culture and traditions, exotic handlooms and handicrafts, indigenous games and martial arts and dances with vibrant steps, colourful attires and melodious music add a magnetic charm and create a magical ambiance all over the world. The wonders are never ending. This is Manipur.

About Manipur University

Manipur University, which stands picturesquely in a big campus spreading over an area of 300 acres, located in the beautiful historic site of Canchipur, Imphal with the old palace of Manipur in the background, is one of the fastest developing Central Universities in India. Established as a Post Graduate Centre of J.N.U. New Delhi in 1972, Manipur University which became full fledged University of the State in 1980 and converted into a central university status in the year 2005 has been playing a pivotal role to disseminate advance knowledge with the motto of – 'Knowledge is Wisdom'. The University is vibrant round the year with teaching and research activities to fulfill the dreams and ambitions of the students. With the conversion into a central university and the subsequent enhancement of infrastructural facilities and with the versatility of the members of the university community, the University is marching ahead with great stride on the path of excellence.